License Extensions

Calculate what the total price would have been for the total number of licenses they would now like to own. Then, divide by the number of new total users to get the per user price at that volume. Then, multiply by the number of new users they want to now add to their original total.
Example: They originally bought Maple licenses for 10 users. Now they want to buy 5 more. 15 total users is $5531 / 15 = $369 per user x 5 new users = $1844 for 5 additional licenses.

Notes

- Support Included.
  - MapleSim requires Maple license.
  - Classroom license use is restricted to on-campus instruction labs for classroom instruction of students only. Not for use in research.
